B4M36SMU

First tutorial

Monday 20th February, 2017

Lectures

- Filip Železný (zelezny@fel.cvut.cz)
- Jiří Kléma zelezny@fel.cvut.cz)

- Lectures are not mandatory, but attendance is strictly recommended.
- Mondays, at 4:15pm, in KN:E-301 lecture hall
- Czech and English lecture are held jointly

Tutorials

- Jáchym Barvínek (barvijac@fel.cvut.cz)
- Ondřej Hubáček (hubacon2@fel.cvut.cz)
- Petr Ryšavý (rysavpe1@fel.cvut.cz)
- Martin Svatoš (svatoma1@fel.cvut.cz)
- All of them can be found in KN:E-435.
- Consultations by appointment.

- Mondays, between 12:45pm and 4pm, in KN:E-307.
- The second parallel is held jointly with English course.
- Tutorials are mandatory,
- however you are allowed to skip two of the classes.

Classification

- Standard A-F grade distribution.
- Up to 100 points (50 from the semester, 50 at the exam).
- There won't be any midterm exam.
- There will be 4 home-works during the semester.
- For each day after deadline, your home-work score is reduced by 3 points (but you cannot get negative score).
- All mandatory parts of home-works must be solved.
- Assessment will be given to those who get at least 25 points from home-works and have at most 2 absences without leave.

Recommended literature

📕 Stuart Russell and Peter Norvig
Artificial Intelligence: A Modern Approach, third edition.
http://aima.cs.berkeley.edu/

📕 Ron Rivest
MIT Course 6.858/18.428: Machine Learning
http://www.cs.princeton.edu/~mona/MachineLearning_
lecture_notes.html

📄 A4M33SAD
SAD course at CTU
https:
//cw.fel.cvut.cz/wiki/courses/a4m33sad/evaluation

📄 Luc de Raedt
Logical and Relational Learning
http://www.springer.com/la/book/9783540200406

Exercises with Python and/or Weka